

The Gardens of Kent.
THE ROSE WALK, FINCHCOCKS.

After the original drawing by W. G. Addison exhibited at the Dore Gallery.

LL11580

Copyright London, 1901
by Raphael Tuck & Sons
ART PUBLISHERS TO THEIR MAJESTIES THE KING & QUEEN

TUCK'S POST CARD

CARTE POSTALE

Always ready to write to you. Your Father is with them, good night my dear dear son with much love. Write to me as you can. Your address old

Finchcocks was built by Edward Bathurst in 1725.
It is in the neighbourhood of Uckfield, on the Sussex border, and not far from Goudhurst.

POSTAGE

My darling Edw^t I will write you a line only a little while to write you a few lines. Do let you know that I am quite well. I have written all the news. I hope you that you will have got your last message from me soon. You both after a day very happy & well.
I think we are going to have a hot one we are having a spell of warm weather now.
I am going to spend today & spend today
the day with you. See dear, bah. Just a post card, sending you my best, Saturday

Postcard No. 10054

The Gardens of Kent.
THE ROSE WALK, FINCHCOCKS.

*After the original drawing by W. G. Addison
exhibited at the Dore Gallery.*

Dear Members of the Royal Green & So.
Our hawks are not injured
Puff off - looks after work
I love the way the brood come to many thanks our, I keep my hawks

clean in the box. the crows & hawks would. They wanted to exchange 2 1/2 for this brood, said "was q.c. good" so
4. with 30 they W. we have it. for 1/2
I saw the hawk & didn't say word
of course what it was but they were dull enough to think it broad. Red been packed we still with more hawks don't feel safe with only 10 night girls & hawks
of an awful appearance with less

usually made one ill & then ourselves. I am from Helle.

LL11580

cTPA12.9

